Creative COVID Coping

There may finally be a light at the end of the tunnel, and wonderful in person events on the horizon! I want to thank everyone who has contributed to our ‘Creative COVID Coping’ series – this has been a way to stay in touch, to welcome new members, maybe to get some ideas from each other, and hopefully to be inspired. If you would like to contribute some thoughts about how you have been coping, along with any pleasant positive surprises, please be in touch! And when the ‘plague’ is beyond us, it would still be nice to feature various folks in some way each month. This month our contributors are Jeff Brillhart, Patrick Murphy, Sándor Kádár and Cally Welsh.

From Jeff Brillhart:
Hey there!! I’ve really enjoyed reading members’ perspectives about how they are coping with Covid!! Thought I’d throw in our story as well.

On March 8, 2020, the Bryn Mawr Presbyterian Church Sanctuary Choir and The Chamber Orchestra of Philadelphia presented what would be the last public concert either ensemble would present before Covid-19 shut down our worlds. At that time the United States had registered fewer than 1,000 cases of Covid-19! Just five days after that concert the church shut down operations (announced at the time as “for a few weeks”). Thus, began the journey all of us have taken.

Initially, like so many of you, I tried to rehearse my choirs through Zoom. I quickly discovered the huge shortcomings of that medium so I shifted the focus away from rehearsing anthems toward intensive breath work (so much so that I found myself couching the exercises in terms of “Heaven forbid, if you get Covid, you’ll want your lungs working in absolutely tip-top condition!), vocalizing, and choral music education. For the rest of the choir season I prepared presentations on everything from the Requiems of Brahms and Fauré to all of Bach’s motets, spreading each composer out over several weeks. Meanwhile, we held two recording sessions of solos by our staff singers that could be spliced into several months of Sunday morning broadcasts of sermons and prayers. At that point, we simply provided organ leadership of one hymn. The pastors and music staff agreed that online, “less was more!”

DEAN’S LETTER

Douglas Backman, Dean

Reaching for the Apex

Back in the middle of April, my great uncle died of prostate cancer. As the family liturgical music expert, I was asked my input for the funeral mass. He was a decorated Marine who served his country with distinction in Vietnam. Instead of the typical Roman Catholic I Am the Bread of Life or On Eagles Wings for the processional, I chose the Servant Song. His sense of service, honor, and duty had a profound impact on me, and I felt the line “…let me be as Christ to you” was especially fitting. After the funeral and my improvised postlude on the Marine Hymn which contained N6 chords like ketchup on a filet cleaned all the relay contacts of a 1915 Casavant, my mind was ablaze on the drive back down from Massachusetts with how Lieutenant Colonel Louie was such a perfect example of a leader.

What is the definition of a leader? What is the “sine qui non” between an effective leader and poor leadership? Are there multiple leadership styles? Is there a difference between efficiency and effectiveness in an organization? These four questions written across the whiteboard of my very first college class are seared into my mind. After countless textbooks, lectures, peer reviewed journal articles, a 127 page thesis, and 3 degrees, I have never seen leadership defined in under 10 words. Most definitions I’ve witnessed have the verb “leading” in them. Others have “motivate” or “achieving”. So, on the surface, it appears that a successful leader must be productive. This is all well and good, and I agree that a group of people working together to fulfill a common goal is the general idea, but we’re still missing a key concept. How do you compel, coach, motivate, and guide that diverse group of people to stay focused and on task to complete the myriad of small mundane tasks critical to completing the larger goal?

There are two constants at the bedrock of leadership: 1. Instant gratification and procrastination are its antithesis. 2. Relationship dynamics are everything. I provide my own definition of leadership in 6 words, in my 2018 doctoral thesis on employee morale and turnover rates in the retail and quick service restaurant industries. “Leadership is taking a proactive approach to relationships.” Leadership is not this big, scary, must succeed at all costs, monotonous, monochromatic, monolith. It is the combination and implementation of core life skillsets enabling one to provide stability in a fluid environment, remain calm and objective during challenges, and anticipate/adapt approaches to meet the ever-evolving landscape filled with both problems and opportunities. You cannot accomplish any of those verbs without first appreciating the process of fostering strong, dependable, and trustworthy relationships with others. Relationships you can rely on because you CANNOT “go it alone.”

NEWS FROM SEPA

A new concert series takes root! Saint Colman Church Concert Series began in collaboration with SEPA AGO. The kick-off, hosted by SEPA-AGO and sponsored by the National AGO, took place safely with a live audience of 70 + attendees and can be viewed at sepaago.org.

The beauty and spaciousness (as Bill Gatens described, "imposing interior") of the Saint Colman interior lends for social distancing. As this factor has become a true measure of comfort, the December concert is a model of live concertizing in the midst of the pandemic.

What began as a pre-pandemic group of concerts for organ solo and organ/other instrument(s) at various venues has been melded into a one-stop series of events, thanks to the hospitality of pastor Father John Ames at Saint Colman Church, Ardmore.

To date the exciting line up includes:

TBA, Aaron Patterson will return to the organ to accompany his mother, Joan Steinberg on harp, for a Mother-Son Organ and Harp duo.

May 30th at 3pm, Dylan David Shaw comes back for a CD-release concert.

December 5th, 3pm, the close of the series year will see the second annual Mandolin & Organ concert, again with Ekaterina Skliar and Alexey Alexandrov on Mandolin.

All concerts will be held at 3 p.m. on Sunday afternoons. Saint Colman Church is located on Lancaster Avenue (Rte 30) across from the Lower Merion Police Station.

TUESDAY NOON RECITALS

Andrew Heller, Coordinator
610-789-0146 TuesdayNoon@agogila.org

We are very proud to now be offering our Tuesday Noon recital series again, virtually and, where possible, with carefully limited in-person attendance. Here are the churches that have kindly agreed to partner with us to host and share these wonderful recitals:

February
Abington Presbyterian Church, John Sall, host.
3 manual Moller, 1969, rebuilt by Robert Gladden

March
St. David’s Episcopal Church, Clair Rozier, Elaine Sonnenberg Whitelock, hosts. 3/46 Dobson organ, 2007

April
Trinity Lutheran Church, Emily Brands, host
Martin Ott tracker, 3 manual

May
All Hallows Episcopal Church, 262 Bent Wood Road, Wyncote, PA 19095. 215-885-1641.
Christopher Kehoe, host
3/19 E. M. Skinner organ, 1929

June
St. Asaph’s Episcopal Church, 27 Conshohocken State Road, Bala Cynwyd, PA 19004. 610-664-0966.
Roy Harker, host.
2 manual Johannus Hybrid organ, 2020

Il Hallows Church started as a mission of the Church of Our Savior, Jenkintown in the 1890's and soon became a major hub for the then-growing village of Wyncote where the nouveau riche built homes to spend summers in the country. It was notably Cyrus H.K. Curtis' home parish as he and his wife paid for much of its interior furnishings and the first pipe organ--Farrand & Votey Opus 803. In 1929, a chancel fire completely destroyed this instrument and a modest III/17 instrument (Opus 803) by the Skinner Organ Company was installed. This instrument remains unscathed by the Organ Reform Movement's ideals that affected so many fine organs in and around Philadelphia. Over the last two decades, the instrument has been re-leathered, rewired, received a complete console restoration, had two of its four reed stops restored, and has most recently received the addition of a Dulciana and Unda Maris (from Opus 762) to complete the Choir division as conceived by Skinner. Come see why many organists find this a "little gem" amongst Philadelphia's fine pipe organs.

May 4th - Dr. Jeffrey Fowler, Music Director at Christ Church, Ithan, and former Dean of the Philadelphia Chapter AGO.

May 11th - Josh O’Kraybill
Josh is a homeschooled high school senior who will enter Cleveland Institute of Music in the fall to study under Todd Wilson. He is the recipient of CIM's Martha Bell Sanders Excellence Scholarship. He has been studying organ with Dr. Gordon Turk for 5-1/2 years, and piano with Jason Shaffer-Valerius for 7. He has been the recipient of the AGO Phila "Next" Scholarship and was chosen to attend the Philadelphia Young Artist's Organ Camp. He is an avid golfer and chess player.

May 18th - Dr. David Burton Brown - Esteemed retired professor of music, and we are honored to have him on our chapter substitute / supply list.

May 25th - Michael Smith - Organist/Choirmaster at St. Thomas Whitemarsh.

How do we connect and implement these concepts into the very foundation of our organization? The good news is that for the most part, they already are here. As the AGO’s first chapter, we were forged by relationships with similar interests and a singular goal in mind. While past leaders and I will be the first to admit that we have failed from time to time, since I moved to the Philly area in 2008, I have seen this chapter make tremendous strides to correct deficiencies. There is still much work to be done, but I am emboldened and convinced that our chapter’s best days are yet ahead. I am happy to report that I have received my annual report from the Endowment Committee and the financial gains made over the past year have been very fruitful. This, combined with the fact that we haven’t taken a significant withdrawal from the fund in the past few years means that we will be able to host some very special events in the 2021/2022 program year. More to come on that in the June issue.

This month I challenge all of you to step out of your comfort zone and work on one task that you’ve routinely brushed away over the past year.

“If you want to change the world, start off by making your bed. If you make your bed every morning, you will have accomplished the first task of the day. It will give you a small sense of pride, and will encourage you to do another task, and another, and another. By the end of the day, that one task completed will have turned into many tasks completed. Making your bed will also reinforce the fact that the little things in life matter. If you can’t do the little things right, you’ll never be able to do the big things right. If, by chance, you have a miserable day, you will come home to a bed that is made. That YOU made. And a made bed gives you encouragement that tomorrow will be better.”

Later in the spring, we ran a three-week pilot of Facebook Live recitals. Much to our delight, we were stunned that more than 3,000 people from all over the world tuned into watch these offerings. A new program was born!

Over the summer, Edward Landin-Senn and I began to develop our "covid-coping" plans for the new year. We realized that with an abundance of space here at the church, we could safely bring small groups of singers together, masked and distanced of course. With the new choir season launched in September, our Zoom rehearsals shifted back to the traditional format of breath work-vocalizing-rehearsal of anthems. But, now, with microphones strategically placed in the space and connected through Zoom, my “at home” singers could see and hear an ensemble being rehearsed. The overall experience for the choir was dramatically improved and truly was a game changer for the Zoom experience. Typically, we spend the first hour of the rehearsal on Zoom, then our staff singers head upstairs to the church for a recording session for the Sunday broadcast. With the addition of the singers to the hymn recordings, members of the congregation are overjoyed at being able to sing with a “choir!”

With the successful pilot of the Facebook Live series we launched an eleven-week series in the Fall. To enhance those broadcasts, we invested in the Sling Studio platform, which allows several iPhones to be used as cameras for the broadcast. This wonderful technology gives us the possibility of numerous camera angles and has hugely enhanced the viewing experience. Our primary goal with the series was to support musicians whose livelihoods were lost because of Covid-19. To be to able engage so many of them in our series is gratifying on countless levels. Remarkably, by the end of the series, more than 12,000 viewers from all over the world tuned in. With the start of our third Facebook Live series, we are certain that some kind of virtual concert experience is in our future.

While a year ago, few of us could wrap our heads around virtual experiences, we see not only continued virtual concert offerings but the potential for Zoom to greatly enhance what we do with the choirs. For example, our decades-long tradition of 12th Night Choir parties had to go virtual this year. Thanks to Zoom we were able to include choir alums from all over the country in the party. The format shifted from an in-person formal dinner party to a choir talent show, with members offering musical selections from their living rooms for all to enjoy. A former member, a talented jazz singer now living in Chicago, joined us and offered a fabulous solo. Two beloved former retired Pastors joined in the party from their home in Virginia and offered a holiday story. From all accounts, this virtual party was described as "the best choir party we've ever had." Post-pandemic, we are excited by what we have learned and envision using Zoom to hold rehearsals on snow days, virtual "open rehearsals" to the congregation, and including the Zoom technology in every rehearsal so that alums or choir members stuck at home with a cold can stay connected.

Meanwhile, like many of you, Bryn Mawr Presbyterian Church remains closed. With mitigation efforts like continued social distancing, masks, and vaccines, we can begin to feel some optimism about the future. I am certain that we will come through this strengthened by our resilience (musicians ARE by nature resilient) and filled with creativity.

From Patrick Murphy:

I caught up with Pat and asked how things were going. He mentioned that he’s observed that churches who are doing live-stream and other related virtually accessible formats seem to have fared pretty well. It’s been a good learning process in how to keep less mobile parishioners involved even beyond the pandemic. The Patrick J Murphy and Associates Pipe Organ Builders (PJM Organs) was able to get a PPP loan which helped enormously. They have found that in some cases it’s been somewhat difficult to get certain big projects to commence, because of wariness to commit. But there have been people who want to do smaller maintenance related projects – cleaning, maintenance, upgrades. Fundraising has been strong in the churches willing to engage it, and folks seem willing to support it, where churches have made a commitment.

“We have two large projects pending but not committed. We’re learning how to adapt, to think outside the box, how to keep all of our clients safe, happy and secure. We’re keeping people from using any spray disinfectant – NO AEROSOL – we recommend clorox wipes. Giving has been relatively steady – the bump wasn’t as hurtful as we thought, churches have made it easy to give on line and have been able provide worship, which has also enabled us to work.”

“We had two academic projects – Swarthmore and Ryder College - both were in conjunction with major construction projects, and both included snags in the construction. We took a few instruments from what was Westminster Choir College to Ryder – three practice organs, and the Cassavant from the Scheide Hall basement (bunker), in Dayton Hall dorm to Gill Chapel at Ryder. This instrument had been Joan Lippincott’s studio organ – the room used to flood. We got it to fit the new location, and put in a new console and control system. This was the first time in 50 years it saw the light of day! We also moved and renovated Schantz and Holtcamp and Bristol Noack practice organs, and refurbished all three. This was a summer project that went into September for the chapel organ, and into January for the practice organs.

Pat was very happy to report that no staff were impacted by COVID. When I asked about possible pleasant surprises, he mentioned being able to meet new clients via Zoom – I know what you look like without traveling a great distance.

From Sándor Kádár:

Sándor is the music director at 1st Presbyterian Church of West Chester, and he reports that even before COVID they were live streaming services so that less mobile folks could still take part. During the past year they have been taping worship services and have been using various combinations of folks within music: vocal quartet, instrumentalists including clarinet, cello, violin, trumpet duo and solo, viola, flute – all appropriately masked, including bell covers for wind instruments. All music is pre-recorded, not played live on Sunday.

In September Sándor was able to begin allowing small groups to rehearse because in the church itself they could be appropriately socially distanced. Those groups included a brass ensemble and two different Hand Bell choirs. For Christmas they were able to do a full concert that was recorded and streamed. For the bells, Sándor had reached out to members of each ensemble back in the summer and 95% enthusiastically wanted to come back, as long as they could do it safely. Within the church they are able to set up so that each ringer has their own table, bells and music, well apart from others, and that has worked well.

On a personal note, last spring Sándor thought he would ‘freshen up the colors in his house,’ figuring as we all did that restrictions would be short lived. The painting project took two months but is complete! During the summer he was able to return to Europe to stay with family for 5 weeks – this during a time when the COVID spread seemed better contained there than in the U.S. - and he was able to continue working for the church virtually! From Szeged, Hungary!
From Cally Welsh:

Cally Welsh is director of music at Nativity BVM in Media, and also the long-standing editor of the newsletter of the Association of Church Musicians of Philadelphia as well as a member of the ACMP Board for several years. Cally relates that her parish tried to maintain the same level of liturgy and music, in accordance with Archdiocesan guidelines. Congregational singing was basically limited to refrains, hymns were only entrance and communion with preparation and dismissal being done instrumentally or with cantor. Of course social distancing was observed. The musical parts of the Mass were retained, except for the Gloria due to length. Priests did not walk the length of the church when processing in, but rather just a shorted distance.

Cally worked to maintain high quality music while staying safe. She alternated between piano and organ, as well as harp when possible. The requirement to have congregations restricted to only singing hymn refrains was limiting, and hymnals were removed from pews for safety. In an attempt to introduce some new music, a new Gospel Alleluia and a new Lenten Gospel Acclamation were employed. It also became her task to prepare a weekly worship aid in their stead, which made weeks with feast days especially challenging! She also prepared worship aids for every funeral. The numbers at church initially were quite low, but now they are increasing. There is one Mass per Sunday that is live streamed.

Cally’s singers have special masks expressly for vocalists, and they use individual mics. They stand at least 8 feet apart and work in quartets. The trumpets that have been part of special liturgies, including Confirmation recently, have special bell covers for safety.

She reports that it has been especially hard on clergy not to be able to do pastoral visits with the sick. On the positive side, she has gotten very adept at creating worship sheets in Word, and has gotten quite comfortable with Zoom this year!

The Year of the Young Organist!

The AGO National Council is committed to membership recruitment, retention, and growth within our organization. As more of our members have reached the “Special” membership category (present company included!), we recognize that new initiatives must be developed to attract and welcome younger members into the Guild. We want them to experience the wealth of benefits, professional opportunities, and camaraderie we have enjoyed during our careers.

To this end, we have established the “Year of the Young Organist,” July 1, 2021–June 30, 2022. During these 12 months, any individual under the age of 30 can become a new member or renew her/his membership for free as part of this program.

We are writing to ask you and every other chapter dean to embrace this initiative with enthusiasm and support. We will not collect membership dues for young organists, neither the national nor the chapter portion, during the upcoming membership year for those under the age of 30. All will receive full membership benefits, including TAO. New/renewing young organists can take advantage of this offer by visiting AGOhq.org/free-membership.

During the Year of the Young Organist, please make a special effort to welcome young organists, keep them engaged with your chapter, and retain them as members after the free membership year has expired.

Thank you for your time and support of this yearlong initiative. If you have any questions, please reach out to a member of our membership team by phone, 212-870-2310 or email members@agohq.org.

Organist / Accompanist
Doylestown United Methodist Church
320 E. Swamp Rd, Doylestown PA 18901
215.348.5224 www.doylestownumc.com
Posted 3/23/21

Doylestown United Methodist Church, Doylestown, PA, a vibrant congregation of the United Methodist Church, seeks an organist / accompanist for liturgical worship services.

Position Summary:
We are seeking a principal organist to play for the one Sunday service and Special (e.g. Ash Wednesday, Christmas Eve) liturgical / traditional worship services and music ministry of Doylestown United Methodist Church, accompanying the choir or offering instrumental support for all liturgical/traditional worship services. This position will also accompany vocal choirs, instrumentalists and soloists when the COVID restrictions are lifted.

The sanctuary organ was built in 1926 by the Midmer-Losh Company (known for their unique “lever-arm” chest actions and later as the famed firm that built the Atlantic City Convention Hall organ, which is the largest in the world). The instrument was moved 1967 to the current church building. Emery Brothers re-leathered the chests of the Swell and Great around 2010 and 2013, respectively. In 2019-20, a new console and chamber relay system was installed, three new ranks of pipes were added, the console was completely rebuilt with new keyboards and controls, and all reed pipes were restored.

The plan is for this to be a salaried position when the church fully opens and resumes the music ministry.

Immediate Supervisor: Director of Music Ministries

Duties and Responsibilities:
* Provide organ and piano service music for all liturgical/traditional services.

* Accompany the choir for weekly rehearsals.

* Provide instrumental support for additional services at the church, Additional compensation will be given.

Heidelberg UCC is seeking a part time Organist and Choir Director. This position is expected to entail about 15 hours per week and involves one Sunday morning service at 10:45 a.m. in the sanctuary on a Rodgers electronic two manual organ. In the summer, we move to the air-conditioned Light Hall with an electronic Kawi keyboard at 9:30 a.m.

The choir is comprised of about 7 individuals who are very dedicated (4 men and 3 women). We would like our new Organist and Choir Director to encourage growth in this area and formulate a youth choir. In the summer, choir is in recess, however we would ask the Organist and Choir Director to plan for special music, that being soloists or ensembles for which there is a designated budget.

Our service is liturgical and we sing 3 hymns. Please direct inquiries to Rev. Dr. Marianne Unger 610.622.3005 or email RevM123@gmail.com. To view our services, please visit our YouTube channel at HeidelbergChurch https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCGs7NVqlzGz0y2brQ9Q9gwh or visit our website at https://heidelbergucc.org.

Our choir is currently not meeting because of Covid, but some members are available for solos or ensembles. The congregation is wearing masks and we are social distancing. We are also not meeting for social events or lingering after worship.

Music Director
The Church of the Holy Trinity, Rittenhouse Square
Philadelphia, PA
Posted 11/18/2020

The Church of the Holy Trinity on Rittenhouse Square in Philadelphia, PA seeks a Music Director to develop and implement a vision for our future. The successful candidate will have experience leading one or more music ensembles. Advanced degree in music preferred. The Music Director will work collaboratively with clergy, staff, choir members, congregants, and community leaders to expand the use of its considerable musical assets for meaningful worship and a growing commitment to the surrounding neighborhood. The Music Director will assist in the imminent installation of an historic Moeller Opus 8128 organ and maximize its value for worship and community outreach. The Music Director will expand opportunities for participation in music programs for adults and children.

Our historic building was originally designed for acoustical excellence and subsequent alterations have added to its city-wide reputation for musical performances that extend beyond weekly worship. The Music Director will utilize our building, our historic instrument, and our welcoming posture to those outside of our doors to develop and nurture relationships with Philadelphia’s rich and diverse musical community.

Interested applicants should submit:
1) a one page cover letter describing their vision for the music program at our church

Many beloved hymns cross cultural, geographical and denominational boundaries, and often also flirt with pop culture. One such hymn that can be found in apparently 132 different hymnals is ‘My Life Flows On in Endless Song.’ Both tune and text have long been attributed to American Baptist minister Robert Wadsworth Lowry in 1860. Lowry was born in Philadelphia and (according to Hymnary.org) began attending 1st Baptist Church at age 17. He went on to study at the University of Lewisburg and then entered the ministry, serving his first church in West Chester, PA. He then served for a time in New York City, then Lewisburg (also working as Professor of Rhetoric), and eventually in Plainfield, NJ. He had already written many hymns and had a lifelong love of music. A publishing firm invited him to become the editor for Sunday School Hymnals – he dove into an in depth study of music, including examining its mathematical aspects. Some of his other hymns include ‘Shall We Gather at the River,’ All the Way My Savior Leads Me,’ and ‘I Need Thee Every Hour.’

In some sources there is question as to the author(s) of the words, some sources calling them ‘anonymous’, however most of the sources now seem to give Lowry credit. It is reported that Pete Seeger learned it from family friend Doris Plenn, a Quaker who had learned it from her grandmother. She described it as her favorite song, “made up years ago when people like us were thrown in jail for their beliefs.” She herself penned a verse during the ‘Red Scare’ era (around 1950) - “When tyrants tremble in their fear, and hear their death knell ringing...” This powerful hymn of faith was sung by abolitionist Quakers and has been incorrectly called a Quaker hymn. This hymn was recorded through generations and by very diverse performers, more recently including Bruce Springsteen and Enya* (*apparently there was legal action because of use of Plenn’s verse, but settled amicably.)

I find this to be a beautiful faith statement that can also be very helpful in difficult times - which may explain its wide appeal. Not only is this lovely as a general hymn of praise, but it's words become all the more poignant for funerals or other significant times of struggle. I learned this from a jazz vocalist from Canada, but then heard an absolutely gorgeous rendition for three part youth voices done by a district choir. I have used this with choirs and congregations over the years and it always seems to be very welcome, stirring, and comforting.

My life flows on in endless song, above Earth's lamentation.
I hear the real, though far-off hymn that hails a new creation.

R: No storm can shake my inmost calm while to that rock I'm clinging.
Since love is Lord of Heaven and Earth, how can I keep from singing?

Through all the tumult and the strife, I hear that music ringing.
It sounds an echo in my soul, how can I keep from singing? (R)

What though the tempest loudly roars, I know the truth, it liveth.
What though the darkness 'round me close songs in the night it giveth. (R)
